

About Neogentronyx

Wednesday, 04 November 2009

Last Updated Tuesday, 15 July 2014

My name is Carlos Owens.

I started Neogentronyx back in 1996 as just something I could do in my spare time to build, work with and develop the things that interested me.

I have always had an interest in mechanical works, inside and out, and I continue to build as time and finances allow.

There are many projects I wish that I could do, however over the years I have learned that it is better to focus and finish than to spread out and accomplish nothing.Â